WHAT IS THE STATE OF NEW YORK DOING ABOUT COLORECTAL CANCER SCREENING?

SUMMARY

While New York does not have a state mandate for CRC screening, it is one of six states in which the CDC's Colorectal Cancer Control Program (CRCCP) provides direct screening services. Free colorectal cancer screening tests are available for eligible, uninsured and underinsured New York residents through the New York State Cancer Services Program. Those seeking treatment may be eligible for coverage through the New York State Medicaid Cancer Treatment Program (NYS MCTP).

New York's screening rate among ages 50 to 64 increased by 1.9% from 2016 to 2018, while ages 65 to 75 decreased by 0.5% over the same period.
